Tae Whittaker Murder. The readers of the BEE will recollect the account, published a few days ago, of a brutal murder committed near Fairbury, in this State. The examination was concluded at Fairbury last Saturday, and Prewett, the alleged murderer, was committed to jail to await the next term of the District Court.

A number of witnesses, says the Nebraska City Press, testified for the prosecution and the defense. Most of them corroborated the testimony given Friday, as to the departure for and return of Prewitt from Beatrice, the blood on the wagon and on his shirt. Mr. Champlin and Sheriff Steele, of Fairbury, testified to finding a watch, which Prewitt acknowledged to be Whittaker's, on his person after his arrest, and for which he claims he traded a yoke of cattle. The blankets and clothes found with the dead body were exhibited to the witnesses, who identined them as nearly as they could considering their muddy condition, as the property of Whittaker; also the wagon cover which was around the body as similar to the one owned by Prewitt. No testimony of importance was elicited from the witnesses for the defense. The circumstantial evidence against Prewitt is very strong.

He is twenty-three years old, with dark swarthy features, similar to a gypsy's. His manner throughout the examination has been cool. According to the testimony, his narrative respecting Whittaker's trip he has never varied. His previous character was exceedingly good.

Public feeling is strong against him, men from his neighborhood are very bitter, and would have lynched him had he not been ar-

JAMES G. CLARK.

The Talented Balladist and Song Writer.

The name of James G. Clark is known far and wide throughout the whole country. He is one of the most accomplished balladists and song writers of the age. The citizens of Omaha had the pleasure of hearing him sing last week at the First Methodist Church, and everybody was so delighted with the entertainment, that Mr. Clark was earnestly requested to favor us with another concert. We are pleased to announce that he consented, and has fixed upon the evening of the 31st instant for the occasion, the programme of which will be pub-

A Severe Blow to the City-Loss About $100,000.

At an early hour yesterday it McGavock, Stephenson, Sutphen, Swobe and President Gibson. was reported on the streets that the Ogden House, the largest and finest brick building in our sister city, Council Bluffs, had been destroyed by fire during the night. It was not long before the report was confirmed by the telegraph. From a dispatch grade. Referred to the Committee received here, we learn that the fire originated in the upper story of the building, and was discovered at half-past 2 o'clock. When the discovery was made the flames had attained such headway that the occupants of the house were powerless to arrest the fire. A scene of terrible confusion ensued. The flames soon made their way to the Mansard roof, which burned like a tinder box, notwithstanding the steady streams of water thrown by the engines-a steamer and a hand engine -and the heavy rain that was falling at the time. When it was ascertained that the building was doomed to inevitable destruction, the guests and other occupants of the house, as well as the citizens, directed their efforts to saving as much as possible of the movable property. A large portion of the furniture and fixtures were thus saved.

The house at the time was filled with guests, all of whom safely escaped with their effects. Dawson's millinery store and the

The total loss cannot yet be ascersined, but will reach $75,000 or $100,000.

The telegraph did not inform us how the fire originated, but we learn from another source that it was caused by the explosion of a kerosene lamp, which the porter had lighted for the purpose of getting a

The blow to Council Bluffs is indeed a severe one, and one from which it will take her a long time to recover. The Ogden was a first-class hotel in every respect, and was to Council Bluffs what the Grand long-winded talk on the subject, so to Council Bluffs what the Grand Central is to Omaha.
